THURSDAY

NEW Science Versus Society: The Conflict

Feb. 21–Apr. 11 • 11:00-12:15pm

$45 member; $60 general, 8 sessions

Science explains through observation, experimentation and mathematics how the world works. However, it does not provide meaning or a value system for human behavior. It is the community through legend, literature, philosophy and religion that establishes morality. As science develops new technology it poses unintended consequences that often challenges traditional beliefs and conventions. Conflict has occurred throughout history and in our own times as our basic ideals face the need for reexamination of cherished traditions.

Dr. Natalie Isser, Professor Emerita, Penn State

NEW Mythical Opera

Feb. 21–Mar. 28 • 1:00-2:30pm

$45 member; $60 general, 6 sessions

Myths, individual or national, hold fascination for all listeners. We will view two myths, one classical and one romantic, to plumb their attraction and relevance to our modern world.

Gerald A. Tremblay, M.A. Educator, Psychologist
